WILSON READY FOR ANTI-TRUST BATTLE

Cabinet Meeting Is Called to Hear Draft of Special Message Read.

THREE VIEWS IN CONGRESS

Some Wish Delay; Others Would Act Mildly, and a Few Would Run Amuck.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 .- President Wilson will continue work on his programme for anti-trust legislation soon after he returns from Pass Christian, Miss., to-morrow. He will arrive here on his private car at 7:30 and at 11 o'clock he will lay the rough draft of his special message to Congress on anti-trust enactments before the Cabinet at the regular Tuesday

In the President's absence a summary of all pending anti-trust bills has been prepared for him by Assistant Attorney-General Todd. It is understood that conservatism will be the outstanding charactervatism will be the outstanding characteristic of the President's anti-trust measurements. The court dismissed a petition for a sage. It is expected that the same will be true of the recommendations which the betrue of the recommendations which the Chronicle Publishing Company of St. Louis, plaintiff in error against the United Attorney-General will make, at least as far as changes in the Sherman anti-trust law are concerned. The Attorney-General's success with the three important eral's success with the three important cases contemplated under the Sherman act which he was able to settle out of court has convinced him that this law is of sufficient strength and breadth to main-tain competition if it is properly enforced.

Lack of Harmony.

President Wilson will doubtless be apprised before his message is forwarded that there is sentiment among leaders in his party opposed to further anti-trust legislation at this time. Senator Overman and Senator Smith of Georgia believe the wiser course would be for Congress to postpone enactments affecting corporations until the new tariff and banking laws have been in operation a year or more. It is known that Chairman Clayton of the House Judiciary Committee will urge that House Judiciary Committee will urge that Congress proceed conservatively in deal-

Congress proceed conservatively in dealing with the corporation laws.

That all the Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee are not in complete harmony with Chairman Clayton and Mesgrs. Carlin and Floyd, who have prepared a series of bills for consideration by the President, was indicated in the presentation of measures on the subject by Representatives Webb of North Carolina and McCoy of New Jersey. Mr. Webb ranks' next to Chairman Clayton on the committee and Mr. McCoy has served on this committee throughout his career in Congress.

It will be seen therefore that the Clayton bills which have not yet been ac ton bills which have not yet been accepted by the Administration have not even been indorsed by the full Committee on the Judiciary. Until President Wilson speaks out on the subject the anti-trust programme will not be framed in Congress. Some Democrats oppose action; others advocate con servative legislation, and there are radicals who want to run amuck regardless of consequences; but all will follow the leader as soon as he gets ready to act.

The radical position is outlined in a statement made public to-night by Repntative Smith of Texas, a Democrat

'I know that the argument is being made that anti-trust legislation ought to be postponed, or that if we must have i now it should be of the weak and harm-less kind so as not to add to the dis-turbance to which business has already been subjected by the tariff and currency acts. To this I do not agree. In reality there is no harmful disturbance of business-only a natural hesitation necessar for a proper adjustment of business to the new conditions of freedom.

Would Let Business Mark Time.

"Legitimate business will move off more "Legitimate business will move off more quickly and make greater strides the earlier its emancipation is complete. It is waiting to be freed from the domination of monopoly. It is better for all legitimate business interests, it is better for the country, that business should continue to mark time a little while longer, if need be, than that the corrorate more. if need be, than that the corporate mor opoly interests should be granted a continuance. It is better to apply the remedy now than to permit the disease to run

The President will have many other problems to take up with his Cabinet after he gets back into harness to-mor-row. Among them will be the selection of a Comptroller of the Currency and of the members of the Federal Reserve problems to take up with his Cabinet
